In so doing he made the following statement:

"It's only taken a little more than seven years for them to get me here. It has been a hard fight, and I've lost; that's all. I'm down and out, and I know when I've got enough. I'll be forgotten in less than a year, except by some of the boys who know there was some good in me, and I am sorry for it. Every laboring man in this country should remember me for years to come. I should be a warning to them. I'm the victim of a custom that is older than I am, and that is the habit of having money transactions with employers. That put me here. "The salvation of the unions lies in stopping that practice at once. They must give up fines, waiting time, back pay for strikes, and everything like that. That's the loophole through which this 'grafting,' as they call it, creeps in. The employers never leave any tracks. I could name 100 empetitors. I know plenty of employers who have made fortunes by the use of money through a young fellow who
